jQuery AJAX

Ex1:
Create page that will be using the http://www.icndb.com API.
Use the http://api.icndb.com/jokes/random/${number} endpoint which returns specified number of jokes. Create input in which you insert number of jokes and on submit you show the list of jokes.

Example design:

Get facts

- Chuck Norris doesn't need to use AJAX because pages are too afraid to postback anyways.
- On his birthday, Chuck Norris randomly selects one lucky child to be thrown into the sun.
- Divide Chuck Norris by zero and you will in fact get one........one bad-ass that is.
- Chuck Norris is the only man who has, literally, beaten the odds. With his fists.

Ex2:
Create page that will be using the https://dog.ceo/dog-api API.
Use the https://dog.ceo/api/breeds/list/all endpoint which will return list of dog breeds and put the list in select tag as options. When the breeds are listed in the select you can choose single option and search for images for specified breed using the https://dog.ceo/api/breed/${breed}/images endpoint.
When the endpoint returns the results list all of the images.
